DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Feagin (6,354,104) in view of Lustig (6,253,570). Feagin discloses a portable cooler with a thermostatically controlled cooling unit and comprising: a cooling module (14), cooling intakes (36), cooling outlet (66), a battery (16), a top (18), a bottom, at least one side walls and a thermostatic control means - see column 4) and having insulated bottom and side walls (as claimed in column 7). Feagin, however lacks a temperature display panel with a thermistor for controlling temperature. Lustig teaches a display temperature panel with a thermistor sensing element. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosed invention of Feagin with a temperature display panel as taught by Lustig for the purpose of maintaining a set temperature thereby regulated by a user.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Feagin in view of Lustig as applied to said claim above, and further in view of Kirby (4,571,740). Kirby further teaches a lid with a secure by hinges for opening and closing said portable cooler.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 10 is allowed over the prior art of record.

Claims 2-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
